Seller's description

Up for auction is one (1) meteorite sphere found deep underground at a mine site in Sudbury, Ontario, Canada in the 1950s.

It is called a meteorite sphere, because the largest documented meteor to hit our planet landed there some two billion years ago. They were recovered from an underground cavern, where they were trapped and sealed for two billion years. They have been in storage for the past 50 plus years. We have a very limited number available.

This sphere is approximately one-half inch in diameter. This one is medium transparent green color. Some have designs in them while others have what looks like tiny bubbles trapped in them. The pictures taken were in natural daylight.

They make for a nice keepsake, a precious gift for your special loved one.

This sphere comes with a certificate of authenticity.

We will accept returns, for a cash refund, but please keep in mind that the buyer pays return postage and there is a 20 percent re-stocking fee charged.

Canada Post Air will be used for delivery and the parcel will be registered as these are very valuable.

Additional Information

These meteorite spheres have not been altered or polished. They are in the raw state as they were found.

The sphere chosen for this auction is a medium green color. Natural light shines through the sphere very beautifully.

The sphere has 2 distinct features. First there are two small bubbles trapped inside it and they are very visible.

The second feature is a small but very distinct pattern appears on the outside surface of the sphere in one area.

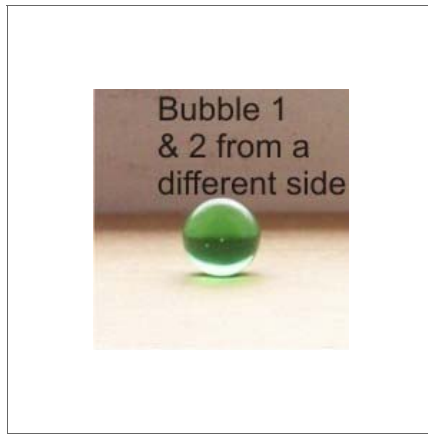

If you look through the sphere on the opposite side this pattern is magnified about 3 to four times its size. One picture shows that magnification very clearly. I tried several times to capture the small pattern on the surface but it would not show in the pictures.
